Hazardous chemical concerns

Waveland fighting railroad speeds

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen is continuing to protest a proposed increase in railroad speed limits with some help from a railroad employee, although the city is actually unable to control train speeds

According to Board Attorney Lucien Gex, CSX Transportation has obtained a temporary court order, that supersedes local speed limits until July 2.

Litigation has been filed by the railroad to permanently remove local speed limits and Waveland is one of the defendants in the lawsuit. Bay St. Louis and Hancock County boards have both expressed opposition to higher speeds, but are not named in the suit because they have no local speed limit ordinances.

On Wednesday, the board discuss ed the problem of railroad speeds with David K. Marquar, a Waveland resident who is state legislative director for Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, a railroad workers' union.

Marquar has been appointed by the union to handle local problems and addressed the board's concerns regarding possible derailments and hazardous chemical spills.

Marquar provided the board with about 15 minutes of news footage regarding a derailment and chemical spill last year in Canada. explaining derailment films from American news agencies can presently be obtained only by sub-

According to Marquar, a train can derail at speeds slower than the 60 m.p.h. that the railroad is proposing, but there is less hazard of a chemical spill.

He stated that police, no matter how well trained, can actually do nothing at a derailment site and should concentrate on evacuation. This would be true in Waveland where one of the city's two schools is on the south side of the tracks. Marquar indicated. The film showed firefighters who were injured when they attempted to use water to stop the effects of a chemical leaking from a train car. The firefighters were not familiar with the chemical, which created sulphuric acid when mixed with water.

According to Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia, the fire department is not notified when a train carrying a potentially hazardous chemical is scheduled to travel through Waveland.

However, train cars are supposed to carry placards with a number indicating the type of chemical being carried. The fire department has a indicates proper methods for handling a spill.

Mayor John Longo Jr., however, said he believes the city should be furnished a copy of the rallroad's load list, indicating what cars carry hazardous materials and when they are scheduled to pass through the city. With that information, the fire and police departments can be put on alert.

He and Alderman Herman Yarborough described a situation in which a car containing potentially flammable material was simply left on a siding near Waveland Avenue for two days before Yarborough discovered what the car contained and notified the railroad to remove Yarborough also stated he feels the track on the siding is dangerous and needs to be repaired before it is used again.

"Under federal law, they could haul a nuclear missile through town and not have to notify you," Marquar explained.

He agreed to help negotiate with the railroad to try to have voluntary notification such as that suggested by Longo.

'The number one thing we have to do is stop them from going 65 before they start," Alderman Louis Smolensky said.

'I can't put the value of a human life below a railroad car. I just can't do that," Longo said.

In a related matter, the board again discussed problems with a steep grade crossing and railroad signals at Nicholson Avenue.

According to Yarborough, the city had been trying to arrange a cooperative effort with the railroad to fix the crossing but has so far been unable to do so.

However, the markers at the crossing have been moved farther from the tracks, which he said may make it more difficult, considering the steep grade, for motorists to see the tracks themselves.

The railroad never notified the city, Longo added. In other business, the board met with Ann Campbell, who representts a group of citizens who wish to stop construction of a proposed regional landfill in the Dubuisson Community near Delisle.

The board agreed to endorse the group's efforts because the aldermen feel seepage from any garbage hauled there may eventually pollute a tributary of the Wolf River near Delisle and possibly endanger oyster reefs in the Mississippi Sound.

The board meets again at 7:30 p.m. July 7 at Waveland City Hall.

Detailed shore protection study expected

BY DENA BISNETTE The Hancock County Board of

Supervisors is expecting a more detailed cost-benefits report on a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers shore protection study by the end of June.

In addition, the board has agreed to meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday with Rick Champion, a Corps design engineer who specializes in beachfronts and who is working closely with the Hancock County

At a Thursday meeting with the board and some of the members of Hancock County's Beachfront Technical Advisory Council, the Corps was represented by Robert Martin, who worked with the council while it helped put together the county's master plan for shore protection and beachfront development, reported to the board regarding the first $77,000 the county has contributed to the shorefront protection study and on that study's progress.

The board was asked at the time the $77,000 was committed for the current fiscal year to commit another $66,000 for a second year of the study, which is aimed at a possible $12 million in federal grant funds for repair of the seawall and sand

The $77,000 is being disbursed to the Corps on an as-needed basis through Gulf Regional Planning Commission and about $20,000 has not yet been used, Martin stated. On Thursday, the board took no action on the $66,000, although Board President and Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar indicated the matter will be considered in August when the board works on its budget for the 1987-88 fiscal year. Kellar, the only supervisor whose beat does not include any of the Mississippi Sound shoreline, said he is interested in having the county serve as administrators for the $66,000 if possible. Board Attorney Gerald Gex explained that it is probably legal for either the board or Gulf Regional to serve as administrators, but said he understood the board had originally turned the project funds over to Gulf Regional because the planning commission had been recommended by Congressman Trent Lott.

Lott had been instrumental in in-Itlating the county's attempts to obtain grant funds for beach repair. Kellar, however, said he was concerned about the county's declining revenues and feels investing the $66,000 could generate some interest revenue for the county.

The board was unable Thursday to determine exactly where and how the interest on the $77,000 is being us-

Gulf Regional Planning Commission Director James Head told the supervisors he plans to look up the regulations regarding the interest and supply that information to the board as soon as possible.

According to Martin, the Corp obtained surveys of the beach, seawall and drainage structures last fall and is currently trying to determine the cost-benefit ratio of a sand berm replenishment program by using Champion's preliminary drawings. The drawings show three designs, with sand berms 100, 200 and 300 feet wide. The problem, he explained, is the cost of the sand and where it will be obtained. The most expensive alternative Martin described involves buying sand commercially and trucking it.

to Hancock County.

Mining sand in some way that will meet the standards of environmental protection agencies, particularly if the mining can be done locally, would be less expensive.

In addition, a particularly coarse, square-grained type of sand is needed. Finer sands with a rounded grain structure are more easily moved by wind and tides, Martin explained.

According to Martin, Champion is recommending the board's input into the design, particularly in areas where some type of bulkheading is needed to keep the berm from eroding.

"One of the basic things we're looking at is optimizing the design, so over the entire project life, say, 50 years, whatever we construct will give us the most economical design in the long run," Martin said, "The wider we build it, the less you will have to spend on maintenance. The best would be one wide enough so you don't have to go REPORT—Page 2A

In addition to the change in the routes there will be another collection cycle because the current collections on four days a week will not handle the increased amount of garbage being collected in the city.

Monday and Thursday collections will be in areas where there are a lot of second homes or weekend residents.

The area between Washinton Street, the railroad tracks and the city limits will have a Wednesday-Saturday pickup and the rest of the city will be on a Tuesday-Friday collection route.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. John Damborino of Bay St. Louis on the celebrating their 60th Wedding Anniversary.

The anniversary date was June 18 and a celebration was given the couple by their children on Saturday.

Mr. John worked for The Sea Coast Echo for many years prior to his owning and publishing The Hancock County Eagle for some 18 years.

I have know the Damborino's for many years and wish them well in the years to come.

Just think, there are not too many couples married for six years today, much less 60 years.

It has been good to have been visiting with many newspaper acquaintances for the past several days at the 121st Annual Mississippi Newspaper Convention held at the Biloxi Hilton.

One person whom we had a long conversation with was David Webb, publisher of the Franklin Advocate in Meadville.

David over 25 years ago, did a summer intern at The Sea Coast Echo while a student in college. It was good to see David and talk about old times and some of the happenings of years gone by. Folks from the interior of the state tells us fortunate ones along the Coast how lucky we are to be in this area.

Of course not too many of them have every experienced a hurricane.

We chatted with Cotton Sellers of Lucedale. If you call him Mr. Sellers, he is fast to say his name is Cotton. His first newspaper convention attendance was in 1922 and he has only missed three meetings since, so he has seen a lot of Mississippi newspaper people come and go over the years. Some of the publishers were talking about their deep sea fishing trip. It seems most of the party got a little seasick because of the choppy water.

I managed to make one of those fishing trips a couple years ago and it was mostly a boat ride as only a few spanish mackerel were landed.

As a matter of a fact Buddy Sellers, son of Cotton who now publishes the newspaper in Lucedale oreated a little excitement on our fishing trip when he landed a 125 pound shark.

Local residents mourn loss of hole, pool and creek

Unforgivable malice to gardens

June 18, 1987 Editor Sea Coast Echo

Waveland

Dear Sir:

We were pleasantly surprised to receive the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's Garden of the Month award for Waveland last month. My husband and I thank the members for this honor.

We moved here three years ago this month and have diligently worked to improve and beautify our corner lot, but it seems that these efforts and honor were not welcomed! To our horror, the beautiful garden plaque placed on our lawn was stolen in broad daylight, while we were away for a few hours.

We have searched high and low for it, but to no avail. We apologize to the club for this malicious act, which was no fault of ours.

We ask that anyone knowing the whereabouts of this plaque, to please notify us or the police.

Quoting Mrs. Strahan, as she stated in her letter to the editor. we agree, that short of fences and land mines, we shall continue to be victims of these unforgivable, malicious, petty crimes!

Sincerely,

Vets job training receives extension

The innovative Veterans' Job Training Act would remain open for new applications and could receive up to $210 million in funding over the next three fiscal years if a bill recommended to the House by the Committee on Veterans' Affairs is enacted.

Clearly, at the very least, we must afford our veterans an opportunity to work, to be productive and to sup-port themselves and their families. That is certainly not too much to ask," said Rep. Wayne Dowdy (D-MS), Chairman of the Veterans Affairs Subcommittee on Education. Training and Employment and the author of legislation that would extend the Veterans' Job Training Act

MONEY OR YOUR LIFE. When you give to the Red Cross, you take on a great responsibility; saving thousands of lives. Maybe even your own.

H.R. 1504, as amended, would allow unemployed veterans to apply through September 30, 1990, for training under the program. The current deadline for applications is July 2, 1987.

The measure would also extend from January 2, 1988, to March 30, 1991, the date by which a veteran must be enrolled in an approved program of job training.

The Veterans' Job Training Act
(VJTA) was enacted in 1983 to address severe unemployment among Vietnam-era and Korean conflict veterans. More than 50 thousand veterans have gone back to work under the program thanks to payments provided to employers by the Veterans Administration to help defray training Funds for the program are nearly depleted. Therefore, the Committee, through the legislation approved today, has authorized additional funds of $30 million for the current fiscal year and $60 million for each of the next three fiscal years.

At Dowdy's urging, the House in April approved a supplemental appropriation for the program of $23.7 million for FY '87; the Senate last week approved $20 million. The House and Senate are now working toward a compromise agreement.

National Science Foundation: getting back on track

About five years ago, I devoted my weekly, column to the frivolous provisions contained in the National Science Foundation Authorization bill which was being considered by the House of Representatives at that

And, in fact, I offered amendments to strike parts of that bill which over the years has funded the study of owl wings and the reproductive cycle of exotic insects at a cost of millions of dollars to the taxpayer. This year's autorization, I am pleased to report, has restored the priorities of the National Science Foundation to basic science and enginerring education programs. The NSF is now the nation's single largest source of funding for university research in those programs. It also is the only agency specifically charged with improving science and math education at all levels. Almost the entire NSF budget is spent on grants. It provides funding for the pending problem of acid rain, as well as expanding into the emerging area of superconductors in which Misssissippi is very interested.

The NSF enables the U.S. to continue to be competitive in the science marketplace throughout the world, and not to be dependent on other nations that could effect our economic

It is a science and an education program as well because it allows for our young people and the schools of higher education to concinne to make a significant contribution to our society.

The future economic withing and competitiveness of the U.S. in the world marketplace ultimately will depend on the strength of the nation's science and mediciology base. Basic scientific research and the education of scientists and enginerrs create this base for technological advances.

History has shown that a sustained investment in basic research contributes to economic growth, to an improved quality of life and to enhanced national defense cāpabilities.

At a time when we are facing the largest trade deficit in the nation's history, I believe that science and engineering research and education will provide the foundation for present and future economic competitiveness in an increasingly global marketplace.

A critical factor in maintaining economic competitiveness is the ability to bring new technologies to the marketplace rapidly.

The funding of the much improved NSF is essential to address important concerns about the health of the U.S. basic research enterprise and the state of science and engineering education, and I was pleased to be able to support it.

Most Americans greeted with en- folk to throw off the usurpation of thusiasm the victory of Cory Aquino tyrants and get a government that the stage for long enough. The people were tired of him and his cronies. The church was withdrawing its support. He was turning to murder to stay in power, and one of the more public murders had made Cory a

We were glad that the victory for the people had been achieved nonviolently, by and large, since the potential for a civil war was very great. What sealed the despot's fate was the refusal of the armed forces to fire upon the civilians.

A ruthless dictator like Assad of Syria has no such compunctions: not long ago he wiped out a city and had his soldiers slaughtered 20,000 of his own civilian subjects because they had shown signs of restlessness against his rule.

Marcos was not a modern dictator, but more like an old-fashioned "godfather." At that he hung on longer than the Shah of Iran, who had honestly tried to propel his people into the 20th century. The Shah aroused the wrath of the Muslim priests ("immams") because he represented modernity against medieval superstition, but especially because he took lands from the religious establishment.to give poor people a start. Marcos didn't make that mistake, so offensive to wealthy and corrupt religious establishments, so he lasted a bit Both the Shah and Marcos had another major problem, however. besides the pressure from the rising expectations of the masses. Both were attacked from extremism and terrorism on both sides: from the communists who were organizing the dispossessed and impoverished to overthrow the old order, and from the rightwing who were using the military "death squads", to keep the poor people in fear and subjection. The effort to organize the common over the despot Marcos. He had derives its just powers from the construtted and fretted his hour upon sent of the governed should not offend Americans, even 211 years after the Declaration of Independence was issued. Nor should we shrink back from strong actions that depose arbitrary rulers. But multiple experiences with the Communists, their infiltrators and treasonous agents, makes amply clear that they use their influence to prevent orderly change and to promote violent change.

The Weimar Republic was whipsawed by violence from the right and the left, from the Nazis and the Communists.

Both brands of extremists attacked those on the middle ground more than they attacked each other.

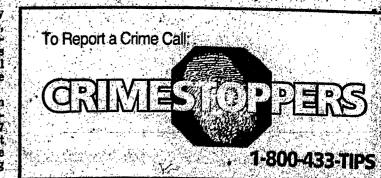

And the existence of streetfighter bands and private armies eventually weakened and destroyed the pre-Hitler German republic, when it could no longer count on its army (the Wehrmacht) for loyalty.

Now President Aquino of the Philippines is facing a similar continuing crisis. A dissident rightwing group in the military has tried to assasinate her by a bomb, when she was scheduled to speak at the Military Academy exercises. And the Communist guerillas, who have for more than 17 years waged war against the government, have refused to lay down their arms and give Cory a chance to make democracy work. They seized the first few weeks of her triumph to share the limelight, and now they are back in the hills with their intimidations and killings. Against a despot or dictator, extraordinary actions are justifiable. Violence by private armies or other terrorist bands against a legitimate government cannot be justified. Cory deserves our continued support as her job gets harder. (Franklin H. Littell, The Hamlin Institute, P.O. Box 2147, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103)

The Mobile District Safety Office urges visitors to Corps Lakes to observe one of the first principles of water safety and choose a safe place to swim.

Nonswimmers should not venture into water beyond chest deep. They should resist the temptation of going beyond this depth with artificial supports such as air mattresses, beach balls, inner tubes and other floats.

No one should use these floatation devices where they would not be comfortable and safe without them.

Swim only in designated swimming areas. Unsupervised swimming exposes a person to hazards that can be fatal. Please remember to think and practice water safety and learn to swim. Beach toys won't save you.

June is Dairy Month in Mississippi and at this time we salute our dairy farmers. Dairying is still big business in the county with milk produced being worth $1,317,140. There are still 9 Grade-A dairies in Hancock County and 800 dairy cows. The above figure sounds big but most of the money a dairy farmer brings in goes for expense.

However, with the recent dairy buyout program milk supplies are down somewhat and producers are seeing some daylight.

Dairying is a demanding job. It is 365 days a year and really 24-hours a day. If a farmer is not milking he is planning how he's going to feed his dairy herd. It takes great amounts of feed and water in both quantity and quality for a cow to produce at her greatest capacity.

A dairyman must keep all machinery in the milking parlor exceptionally clean. This keeps the bacterial count down. Milk supplies are inspected monthly by the Health Department and samples are rawn.

I just received some facts about the dairy industry and thought you might be interested.

Courrege seeking fourth term

as District One supervisor

Bert Courrege, incumbent District One supervisor, has announced his candidacy for re-election. Courrege, 46, has served as Beat One supervisor for the past 12 years. He is a lifelong resident of Han-

Anne and Scott.

Courrege is a member of Waveland Civic Association; Masonic Lodge 429, York Rite Temple; Joppa Shrine Temple; Noncommissioned Officers Association of America; Mississippi Cattleman's Association; Gulf, Flaherman's Association; and Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department.

One supervisor for the past 12 years

He is a lifelong resident of Hancock County and a graduate of Bay Senior High School He attended Louislana State University in Baton Rouge, La. and completed preengineering at LSU in New Orleans.

The candidate is married to the former Christine Breaux and they have four children, Dinah, Bert Jr., Anne and Scott.

Courrege stated that he is proud of the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the provident in the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments of Hancock County in which he has taken part, including the accomplishments. instruction and repair on the beach and Beach Road. Courrege said he also takes pride in being able to state that under the current administration, the people of Hancock County have been allowed to decide by referendum on major issues including the jail bond issue, a proposed county building code and the county unit system.

"If re-elected, I will continue to work with other elected officials in a joint effort to improve our county," the candidate stated.

"My major concern at this time is the creation of new jobs and attracting industries that will replace those jobs lost due to the declining oil industry and poor economy," Courrege added.

State Tourism director named

"I think that we have found the best person for the job of tourism director with the Mississippi Department of Economic Development," said Jerry McDonald, executive director of the Mississippi Department of Economic Development.

McDonald announced the selection of Al Elmore for the post during the monthly meeting of the Mississippi Board of Economic Development.

"I think that Al has shown excellent leadership ability during his tenure as acting tourism director and that he has the support of the tourism industry throughout the state. I know that he will continue to provide strong leadership in his new Elmore says, "The tourism industry in Mississippi has great potential for growth and development and I look forward to assisting the state's tourism industry with that growth."

Elmore joined the Department of Economic Development's Tourism Division as assistant tourism director in 1980. Since joining the department, he has served as executive director of Mississippi's World Fair Council, Inc. and has served as acting tourism director.

Elmore is a native of Goldsboro, N.C. He has a bachelor of business administration degree in economics and finance and a master's of business administration from the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. He served as a tourism program director with the Ozarks Regional Commission in Little Rock, Ark. before joining the department.

"Our aim from the very beginning was to be a statewide bureau in more than just our name," stated BBB executive director John Lacourrege in announcing the service upgrade. "But we wanted to follow the advice we give thousands of Mississippians every year and take our time to do it right."

'The establishment of branch offices in Columbus, Hattiesburg, and the Gult Coast area were this burean's first efforts at bringing our unique services closer to all who might need them," explained the BBB executive. "But this still left many areas of our state without ready access to their Better Business Bureau."

By Tom Hill Postmaster, Bay St. Louis

It's been quite a while since we ran this column, but because your Postal Service is undergoing so many changes nationally and locally, we thought our customers might like to know what's happening.

We won't be able to cover much of any particular subject in this article, but we will try to give you a preview of what is coming - such as,

-Are postage rates going up? If so, when and how much? What's going to happen when we move to the new Post Office on Highway 90?

-Will the Post Office be hiring any more employees? -What's going to happen to the Waveland and old Bay St. Louis Post Office buildings? -When can I apply for a Post Office Box in the new facility?

 What's happening regarding the new house numbers?

-Who is assigning them? -How will I be notified? -When will I have to begin using mine? -These and other Postal topics will be addressed one at a time over the next few months. This week, though, we would like to tell you about the new check acceptance policy of the Postal Service. Effective June 7, 1987, customers are permitted to pay for COD articles by check made payable directly to the mailer instead of to the Postal Service, and no money order fee will be charged. However, if the customer wishes to pay cash for the COD, a money order fee must be paid also, and the Post Office will send a Money Order to the mailer.

Customers paying by check will be required to present two proper forms of identification, preferably a valid driver's license and a credit card. Social Security cards are not acceptable as ID.

The USPS Board of Governors ordered the change to help reduce COD fraud. Checks made payable directly to vendors allow a dissatisfied customer to stop payment and resolve a dispute without involving the Postal Service.

In the past, when a customer paid for a COD article by check, it was written to the Postal Service for the amount of charges and an additional Money Order fee.

The Post Office would then send a money order to the mailer. The customer could not stop payment of the check if he was not satisfied with his order because the postal service was not libel for the merchandise.

The Post Office was responsible to deliver the order and send payment to the mailer. If the mailer was operating a "scam" (commiting mail fraud), many times he or she had disappeared out of sight before the Law enforcement personnel

The next "Farmweek" on Mississippi ETV takes a look at the growing popularity of redfish and how the recent demand has spawned an interest in commercial producarmweek," a co-production of Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, can be seen at 7:30 p.m., Monday, June 22, on the statewide ETV network.

With "blackened redfish" being the seafood dish in vogue over the past several years, a heavy demand for the fish by restaurants has understandably necessitated an increase in commercial harvesting. The heavy harvesting activity has resulted in a temporary ban by the federal government on commercial harvest in federal waters of the Gulf of Mexico for the purpose of allowing time to study the impact of intensive commercial harvesting on redfishpopulations. This ban, in turn, has sparked an interest in the possibility of raising the fish commercially, similar to the many successful catfish operations in the Delta. "Farmweek" will visit with persons already involved in redfish research and production, as well as those who are directly affected by the ban on commercial harvest.

Among those interviewed will be Jay Trochesset, a charter boat captain; a representative of Clark Seafood Company in Pascaoula; and John Chapman, chef and owner of Chappy's restaurant in Long Beach. "Farmweek" also will visit a redfish research facility in Harrison County, which is studying whether the commercial raising of redfish is feasible from both biological and financial standpoints. And, "Farmweek" will visit a hatchery in Long Beach that may evolve into a full redfish farm, Bob Hunt, manager, gives a tour.

Part VIII in a series

In coastal gardens

By John E. Davis

Area Horticulture Specialist, MCES The next historic celebration in the United States, the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution which will occur in 1987, will no doubt be celebrated like the others before it.

We will invite family and friends over for backyard barbeques or picnics after proudly raising a flag at the front door.

Mornings may be spent at parades, and evenings watching fireworks displays. But this one will be a little different.

Realizing that once a memory, Bicentennial Commission chairman Warren Burger has asked that every community in America create a "Constitution Garden".

This Living Legacy, according to Burger, will ensure that a portion of our landscape will be dedicated to celebrating the freedom the Constitution has allowed us to enjoy.

You can help commemorate the Constitutional Bicentennial in a meaningful way by planting a Living Legacy. These can take on a variety of faces: establishing a new garden, restoring an existing park, planting the town square, refurbishing the grounds of a public building, reclaiming a vacant lot, creating a garden for the handicapped, sponsoring a children's garden.

Clubs, groups, community leaders and individuals should encourage ornamental peppers for your red accent with blue and white petunias.

Among the most heat-tolerant of plants, the slim-fruited "Holiday Flame", tapered "Red Missile" long "Masquerade", cone-shaped "Holiday Time" or round "Holiday Cheer" peppers form a ground hugging border to larger blue and white design components.

Where a taller design can be used.

especially in a spot built into the side of a sloped hill, the rugged "Nicki" nicotiana in white and red will be filled with flowers from the tops of the plants to the ground. Combine them with a blue of your chòice; delicate Salvia farinnnacea 'Victoria" will be a source of blue as well as a contrast in texture. Both are compàtible in sun or partial

The most popular annual in the U.S. today should find its way into many Bicentennial gardens. That is the impatiens, and its leading series, the "Super Elfins", boasts varieties in all three tones for the red, white and blue garden. There is a white, a choice of red or scarlet, and a lavender blue known as "Twilight". Growing only 10-inches tall, they are equally as happy in tubs, baskets, window boxes or the ground. Where you want height variation in your design, rim "Super Elfin Twilight" with "Mini" impatiens in red and/or white. Mix and match other annuals as well in containers if there isn't ground space in which to plant a Living Legacy. Spikes of salvia in the center will grow up and out, surrounded by cascading petunias that will fill out the containers, plant a little closer than you would in the ground and water frequently as containers dry out quickly. When the U.S. celebrates the Bicentennial of its Constitution on. September 17, 1987, it is hoped that there will be a red, white and blue flower garden in the background of every community's festivities. There is no better way to put the finishing touch on the celebration than with a red, white and blue garden which offers a unique, colorful and meaningful way to participate.

Learning Ladies

"Fun" was the order of the day as Learning Ladies held monthly meetings

Tuesday, June 16, at Wave Pool Buccaneer State Park, Waveland. The meeting was opened by President Norma Haas, who presided. The minutes were read by Joan Gauthier. Plans were made for our indoor Bi-Centennial Celebration, which will be in August, joining together with all Hancock County Homemaker Clubs for this extravaganza.

Also discussed were plans to collect articles for the Battered Women's Shelter, which is our second project of the year. Lunch was prepared and served by Mrs. Haas. All members enjoyed the beautiful surroundings, and a great time in the pool. The meeting was adjourned by presiding officer.

LIFE'S LITTLE UPS AND DOWNS

Do your children tell you everything? If they have taken a spill, fallen off a blke, or injured themselves playing football, you may be the last to know. That's why it's important to give your children a Chiropractic Checkup regularly. Many times, untreated childhood accidents turn into spinal distortions that may not show up for months or years. Parents never really know how many little bumps, knocks, and falls their children have had. Why take a chance? Bring your family in for a Chiropractic Checkup. CALL TODAY!

MARGARET "WOOTSIE" Senate-District 47

ELECT

Most Pearl River Countians know me, but for those who don't Poppa Bill and I live east of Picayune in the Salem Community on a lovely tree shaded glen that we call Possum Hollow. I am at present serving District 108 as their Representative in the "House." Now I am asking for your support in my bid for the District 47 Senate Seat.

Poppa Bill and I recently attended the Inaugural ceremony for Dr. Ted Alexander, the new President of Pearl River Jr. College. One of the featured speakers spoke of "new beginnings."

Exactly what are new beginnings? A new life, a new grandsugar, graduation, a change of attitude, a new challenge might be classified as "new beginnings." The opportunity to grow, to extend one's horizon's and abilities, the challenge to meet new friends, plow new ground are "new beginnings."

My decision to run for the Senate is a "new beginning" for me. It will afford me an opportunity to renew old friendships and make new friends. The challenge to work harder for a greater number of constituents and represent all of the citizens of the Senate District 47 holds added responsibility and commitment.

I have learned much during my tenure as a Representative. I have grown in strength and spirit. I have fought hard, worked long, learned the process and rules and stood my ground. I have practiced the art of legislative maneuvering to an advantage. I have worked in the committee, through the committee and often on the floor of the "House" against the committee. I arrived at the legislature motivated, have stayed motivated and have motivated others. I have amassed a seemingly endless voting record which is far from perfect. I have tried to fulfill my commitment to communicate with my voters. I have pushed for change, responded to change, been an important part of that change with the promise that progressive leadership will emerge. I have attempted to be a leader among my peers and have earned the respect of my colleagues.

Poppa Bill has been a best friend and a helpmate. He has cheerfully chauffered, run errands, made appointments, done all things asked of him. He has always extended his right hand in friendship for you the voters wherever we have traveled in Mississippi not just in or for our district.

The issues have not always been easy to resolve-priorities not easy to select. But hopefully we have made good and proper attempts to represent our district with respect and ability.

It is with these credits and credentials that we, Poppa Bill and I, respectfully ask for your support in the upcoming election for your District 47 Senate Seat.

I am looking forward the the next three months of the primary campaign with enthusiasm. I am looking forward to the "new beginnings" that lie ahead. God willing . and with your support, Poppa Bill and Lare looking forward to serving you in your District 47 Senate Seat for the next four years.
